

Principles of Yard & Warehouse Operations

Friday, April 5, 2019

(1 Day Seminar)

Program Objective & Topics:

This seminar is designed to provide a clearer understanding of what it takes to manage one of your most important assets – the YARD! Not only will your foreman return with a better understanding of his or her position and how it relates to the ultimate success of the total business, but your foreman will have firm ideas and methods ready for immediate implementation.

- ♦ Participants will learn the importance of a well-managed yard, storage and delivery operations in the retail building supply business.
- ♦ Participants will understand the impact of yard operations on the bottom line.
- ♦ Participants will look at the principles of efficient warehouse and yard lay-out.
- ♦ This course will cover all aspects of the job – from inventory management, effective use of equipment, work-place safety – to customer service and employee management.

About the Instructor – Stan Burkholder has a passion for giving back to the retail building materials industry which he has been a part of since 1973. Combining an understanding of estimating, sales, common sense and reality he brings a respectful process to estimating and building material sales. Stan started in a family run retail lumber yard in Bluesky, AB. as a part time student cleaning the toilets and mopping the floors. After 5 years part time he worked full time for 25 years then Stan and his partner sold their retail lumber company. During his career Stan worked at all functions of their store specializing in estimating. Stan was very involved outside the store setting volunteering in the industry (Past WRLA President), in the community and in their church. Stan travels across Canada and the USA speaking and training in both the retail building material industry and church settings. Stan has many tips, likes learning about the current industry processes and believes "If better is available- is good good enough."
